STEVEN COVEY SEVEN HABITS

Autumn is a great time to incorporate some new habits into your life. It is a perfect time to make the Seven Habits a part of your daily routine.

Here are some ways you can "fall" into good habits:

- Be proactive by raking up the leaves in your yard or cleaning your room
 - Put first things first by getting your homework done before you start playing
 - Begin with the end in mind by getting your backpack ready in the evening and laying your clothes out for the next day
 - Use the think win-win strategies when interacting with your friends and family
 - Be sure you listen to your friends and family with your ears, your eyes and your heart
 - Synergize at home and at school because we know that together we are better
 - Be sure to sharpen the saw so you are at your very best by recharging your batteries on a regular basis.
- "Falling" into the seven habits can make this the best autumn ever!
